

Luxoft and ITRS advanced monitoring solutions for financial services trading and risk

With over 20 years' experience in implementing and managing trading and risk management platforms, Luxoft understands the challenges faced by financial services institutions. Platform stability, performance issues, and the complexities of trade lifecycle execution often create hurdles. Additionally, unexpected surprises during end-of-day processes can generate stress and impact operational efficiency. But what if these issues could be identified and resolved before they impact your systems?

Luxoft and ITRS have partnered to develop advanced monitoring solutions specifically designed for financial services trading and risk platforms. Our solution address the end-to-end transaction lifecycle, offering various levels of visualization for on-premises and cloud applications. Benefit from a single view across infrastructure, applications and business services, ensuring complete visibility and boosting operational resilience.
