

Automation

Driving the future of the insurance industry

With growth consistently above 10% globally, even during times of economic turbulence, few industries are more dynamic than insurance. Keeping pace with the competition is not good enough. Bold decisions and rapid action are required to be an industry leader. Leaders need to reimagine how they go-to-market, how they expand the addressable market and find new efficiencies in order to free up investment.

As the leader in systems integration for financial services, Luxoft knows this situation well. We've been helping the world's leading and most demanding banks through an incredible transformation. Quietly, we've already been doing similar work for some of the world's leading insurers and are now expanding our focus in this space with additional offerings and expanded capacity.

At Luxoft, we know that automation underpins almost every aspect of how insurers will transform. But this isn't just about adding robots to an existing workflow. This is about using analytics, machine learning and leveraging modern technology to deliver a reimagined insurance process.

Luxoft stands ready to support the future industry leaders.
